WALL OF ART

Transform any wall in your home instantly with stitched leather tiles from Studioart. The Italian leather interiors brand celebrates its 10th year in style with an anniversary collection created in collaboration with designers from around the world. Cover your walls with pastel geometric tiles by Italian product designer Giorgia Zanellato, the inventive, mathematically-inspired patterns by Hong Kong-based designer Elaine Yan or the kaleidoscopic pieces in jewel tones by Massimo Brancati. As with the all-leather wallcoverings from Studioart, the tiles from its anniversary collection can be customised by colour and size to fit your decor needs. Available at Tatum Singapore, tatumcompany.com

CREATURE COMFORTS

Nestle in comfort on the iconic Tired Man chair of by Lassen, now upholstered in aniline leather. First designed by architect-designer Flemming Lassen in 1935, the chair is the epitome of hygge, that Danish obsession with getting cosy; the curved form of the voluminous armrests of the chair create a bear-like embrace that encircles the user. Available in three shades: natural, black and brown. bylassen.com

Mirrored Splendour

A strikingly well-placed mirror not only reflects the beauty of a space, it can become the centrepiece of your room, too. This particular mirror from Memoir does just that while playing with your perception through its double layers of antique mirrors. Hand-cut and bevelled, the mirror is a beautiful collection of geometric forms that evoke a honeycomb-like form framed in silver. memoir.pt
